EMPLOYMENT

The employment team of Szecskay Attorneys at Law is top ranked by all independent legal directories, praised by peers and trusted by clients.

We have extensive experience in all fields of employment law through the representation of both local and foreign clients.

Because we realise both the importance and the sensitivity of labour force management, our employment law team is committed to providing pro-active, effective and up-to-date assistance to our clients on all labour related matters.

OUR SERVICES

We regularly offer advice on a wide range of employment matters including:

- hiring employees in line with anti-discrimination laws;
- obtaining labour permits for foreign employees;
- preparing executive and general labour agreements;
- drafting and revising collective bargaining agreements, organizational and operational rules and other rules governing labour relations (such as codes of ethics);
- assisting with the preparation and implementation of employee share option schemes or other employee benefit programs;
- issuing legal opinions on other labour issues (such as sick-leave, wages, working hours, confidentiality obligations and non-competition);
- preparing the termination of employment agreements and representing clients in legal disputes arising from the employment relationship;
- representing employers in connection with planned labour force reduction programs;
- advising employers on employment-related data protection issues, including concerning compliance with the GDPR (eg controlling data at all stages of employment, running electronic monitoring systems, checking the e-mail and internet usage of employees, advising on fraud-detection systems, etc.); and
- advising employers on aspects of labour law found in M&A transactions and corporate restructurings, including the legal succession of employment.

„They are excellent They always deliver in terms of timing and quality.”
